Boy Breaks Race Boycott; Father Freed

New Tension Is Feared In Louisiana Dispute Over Integration

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The father of the 9-year-old boy who shattered the two-month boycott by white persons of an integrated New Orleans public school was looking for another job today determined not to submit to pressure.

"I'll find another job if I have to go to the other side of hell," said John H. Thompson, 33, during an exclusive interview with The Associated Press shortly before he was informed he had been fired from his $73-a-week job.

Thompson was told of his discharge when he reported for work at 3 p.m. Friday at the drug store where he was an assistant soda fountain manager.

J. C. Adams, the store manager, said he knew nothing about Thompson's son attending McDonogh No. 19 school and that Thompson was ordered dismissed Thursday because "he didn't cut the mustard."

Thompson's son, Gregory, slipped unnoticed into the school Friday but was greeted by yell of "traitor" from women demonstrators when he left later accompanied by a federal marshal.

Gregory was the first white pupil to enter the three-story building in eastern New Orleans since a day or two after token integration began last Nov. 14. Only three Negro girls have attended McDonogh classes.

The presence of the youngster set the stage for new tension in troubled New Orleans. The tension is expected to increase if Thompson goes ahead with plans to re-enter another son, now ill, in McDonogh Monday.

The Thompsons and their six children came to New Orleans from Alabama about a year ago and moved into the McDonogh neighborhood in November. Gregory and Michael, 8, entered McDonogh No. 19 and then were shifted with other white children to segregated schools in an adjoining county.

"I was raised as a segregationist," Thompson said, "but I've a mind of my own. I lived with Negroes in the service (Army) and I know that no black rubbed off on me. I know integration has got to come and there's no use trying to live like a hundred years ago."

In Atlanta, the Georgia Legislature moved swiftly to replace the state's rigid school segregation laws with a local control plan designed to hold integration to a minimum.

Action was completed — except for correction of a typographical error—on three bills and a proposed constitutional amendment prepared by Gov. Ernest Vandiver. The governor is expected to receive the proposals for signature the first of the week.

The measures represent a shift from the school closing philosophy of recent years and place emphasis instead on guaranteeing free.

Freed Fliers Due To Head For Homes, Visits with Kids

WASHINGTON (AP)—Air Force Capts. John R. McKone and Freeman O. Olmstead, reunited with their wives after almost seven months in a Soviet prison, want only one thing more—to see their children.

They are expected to get that wish today after winging home to Topeka, Kan., in an Air Force plane.

A warm welcome from President Kennedy and their wives here Friday eased the chill of weather better suited for Siberia than Washington.

In the midst of the pomp and ceremony and a presidential greeting, both men said they wanted to go home and see their children.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said the restriction was imposed because the State Department did not want to jeopardize prospects of improving relations with the Soviet Union.

Salinger said there was "a general understanding" that the fliers "for some period of time will not grant interviews."

Missing Yank Intelligence Aide Located

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Reliable sources said today a former U.S. intelligence employee who had been reported missing has turned up at his home in Anaheim, Calif.

After a tour of the White House, conducted by the President, the McKones and Olmsteads returned to Andrews Air Force Base for the night.

At Topeka, Kan., another warm welcome—in chill, snowy weather—awaits them today. Gov. John Anderson of Kansas and Topeka

U2 Pilot's Family Holds Fresh Hope

NORTON, Va. (AP)—The parents and wife of U2 spy pilot Francis Gary Powers saw new hope today he will be released from confinement in the Soviet Union.

Powers wrote his parents Thursday that "I may see you soon but do not be too optimistic." Oliver Powers, his shoemaker father, said he is "quite optimistic" his son "will be released from a Russian prison soon."

The release of two RB-47 pilots held in the Soviet Union seven months has buoyed his spirits. The elder Powers was also heartened by President Kennedy's announcement at his Wednesday news conference that U2 flights over Soviet territory will not be reported anywhere.

'Shoeless Gene' Gets Prison Term

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Eugene Yancy, Oakland's turkey sandwich burglar who is known as "Shoeless Gene," was sentenced Friday to five years in state prison.

Yancy, 21, was arrested the day after Christmas, walking barefoot two blocks from the house he was accused of burglarizing.

Police said Yancy forced his way into the home of Mrs. Avery Johnson, 51, woke her up and ordered her to fix him a turkey sandwich.

He left in haste without his shoes, he said.

Six Chimps Ready For Rocket Trip

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Six young chimpanzees began final preparations today for a rocket ride one of them will take next week to blaze a trail for human space travel.

Two hours before the scheduled launch time, perhaps on Tuesday, medical men will decide which of the six is best fitted physically and psychologically for the jolting ride intended to take the ape 115 miles high and 290 miles down the Atlantic missile range.

If the chimp and his space capsule come through the 16-minute, 4,200-mile-an-hour ride unscathed, one of America's astronauts probably will take an identical trip into space within two months.

The upcoming flight is designed to determine how the small passenger reacts under extreme forces of acceleration and re-entry and during a five-minute period of giddiness weightlessness.

The chimpanzee has been trained to perform a series of lever-pushing tasks during the ride.

Medical examination of the chimp will begin immediately. Then the space hero will be returned to Cape Canaveral for further checks and to tell his five simian friends who stayed behind what they missed.

Four of the candidates for the flight are male, two female. They are between 3½ and 4 years old, with weights ranging from 27 to 47 pounds. During the final days before the scheduled blastoff of the Redstone booster rocket, they will undergo repeated medical checks and bone up on their lever-pushing chores.

"When the time comes for selection," a National Space Agency official reported, "we will pick a primary chimp and an alternate. If the primary animal gets cold feet, we'll use the other."

Electronic sensors will be attached to the ape's body. These will measure heart beat, body temperature, respiration and task performance during flight.

The animal will be zipped into a plastic couch, with only his head and arms free to move. Three hours before launch time, the couch will be fastened securely to the floor of the one-ton Project Mercury space capsule atop the rocket.

Snow mixed with sleet or freezing rain slicked highways in northern Texas and the lower Mississippi Valley with snow flurries over the northern Rockies, through the Great Lakes and into the Appalachians.

Temperatures ranged from a high of 64 at Key West to a low of -16 at Laramie, Wyo.

At Windsor Locks, Conn., a low of -12 early today broke a previous low of -7 and at Evansville, Ind., a low of -11 broke a previous mark of -5 set in 1936.

The prolonged cold spell is expected to continue over the northern Rockies and northern Plains but some warming is indicated eastward to the middle Mississippi and Ohio Valleys and the southern portion of the Great Lakes.

Snow and snow flurries were expected over the Rockies, southward into northern New Mexico and much of the Plains area and eastward to the upper Mississippi Valley, the Great Lakes and in northern New England.

Snow mixed with sleet or freezing rain was predicted for most of Texas today and eastward through the lower Mississippi Valley and Tennessee.

FARM

Corn Still King Of Silage Crops

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Corn remains the "King" of silage crops available to Ohio farmers.

Getting the most feed from an acre of corn silage requires attention to varieties, cultural practices and time of harvest.

Corn ear about 85 per cent digestible, leave 60 per cent, and stalks about 50 per cent digestible on a dry weight basis. Thus, an increase in the percentage of grain will increase digestibility, and, in effect, will produce a more concentrated feed.

The stage of maturity at which corn is harvested for silage greatly affects the amount of feed nutrients produced. Ears make up more than 55 per cent of the dry weight of the corn plant when it has reached the ideal stage of growth for ensiling.

Practices which increase vegetative growth but interfere with ear development reduce the amount of feed nutrients per acre from the corn crop harvested as silage. These practices include: the planting of long season hybrids which must be harvested at an immature stage of growth; planting too thick, as is frequently the case when corn is drilled solid with a grain drill; mixing other crop plants in the row with corn. This is contrary to what has been written in farm periodicals recently.

CORN PLANT population for optimum silage yields are usually the same as for the best grain yields.

The percentage of total weight in ears, and the per cent digestible remained relatively constant as the population increased from 8,000 to 18,500 plants per acre. Grain yield, total weight and TDN increased as the population was increased.

Earcorn and shelled-corn silages are increasing in popularity. Earcorn silage consists of the ears, with or without husks, chopped fine or ground and put into the silo. Shelled-corn silage is made from the grain alone. The kernels may be cracked or whole; cracked kernels seem to pack and keep better in the silo than the whole corn grain.

The best time to ensile earcorn or shelled corn is when the kernels contain about 30 per cent moisture. If the kernels contain less than 24 per cent moisture there is danger of excess spoilage in the silo or during feeding.

The Pickaway County Hay and Silage Show along with a silage clinic will be held at 10 a. m. Friday at the Williamsport Parish Hall.

4-H Club News

On January 19, the Darby Junior Leaders were hosts to the County Junior Leadership Club. The Junior Leaders decided to sponsor a Foreign Exchange Student in the county this year if a host family can be found. Another important item of business discussed was the attendance at county Junior Leader meetings.

The group decided that all 4-H members who enroll for the Junior Leader project this year be required to attend at least two county Junior Leader meetings in order to complete their project.

New officers for the coming year were elected also. They are: president — Norman Wilson; vice president — Jerry Vance; secretary — Jane Hockman; treasurer — Robert Bower; news reporter — Nancy Huffman, and recreation leaders — Linda Hinton, Peggy Clark, Bill Hammond and Gary Thompson.

Junior officers elected were: second vice president — Carolyn Walters; third vice president — Carol McFadden; junior secretary — Kay Trump; junior treasurer — Patty Kempton; and recreation leaders — Mike Eckle and Leola Harmon.

The Darby Junior Leaders served refreshments which were enjoyed by all.

Don't forget, January 31 is the deadline for 4-H members to sign up to receive free trees from the Division of Forestry, Department of Natural Resources. These trees can be one of your 4-H projects for 1961. Application blanks may be obtained from your 4-H club advisor or the county extension office.

Eight 4-H club advisors and two Extension Agents from Pickaway County are planning to attend the Southwest District 4-H Advisor Training Conference February 3 and 4. Advisors attending are Louie Drummond, Mrs. Jack Hatzo, Carroll Reid, Mrs. Donald Kempton, Loring Leist, Weta Mae Leist, Willard England, Michael Torchick. Agents attending are Leoleen Wright and Ed Taylor. Those attending will receive helpful instruction in planning, developing, and carrying out a local 4-H club program.

The 4-H Advisory Council will hold its next meeting at 8 p. m. Thursday in the extension office.

Colt and Equitation Club By Brenda List

The Pickaway County 4-H Colt and Equitation Club held its organization meeting January 9 in the coliseum.

Officers elected were: Mary Claire Short, president; Diana Ankrom, vice president; Leola Harmon, Secretary; Linda Steck, treasurer; Brenda List, news reporter; Melinda Rickelman, health leader; Drexel Poling, safety leader; Brad Dunkle, recreation and Willie Ridge, photographer.

The advisers discussed the parts of the bridle and saddle.

The meetings are to be held on the third Tuesday of each month.

$2,500 Ohio Painting Gets Turned Down

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The plan of the Department of Industrial and Economic Development to contract for a $2,500 panoramic painting of Ohio scenes for use as an exhibit got a set-back Thursday from the state controlling board.

The board turned down a request from the department's director, Koder M. Collison, for permission to contract for the painting and construction of the exhibit without competitive bidding.

The request to the board, which decided there was no emergency, said the panoramic view of Ohio would show recreation, modern industry, lakes, cities, historic spots, old covered bridges and other views. It would have been mounted so that it could be carried in a station wagon.

Collison said it was planned to replace an old exhibit.

The board released $7,560 to the division of correction for hiring a panel of correction for the painting and construction of the exhibit without competitive bidding.

Do you know that the Basic Seven Food Group is outdated? No longer do we plan balanced meals by using foods from seven different food groups. If you do you are behind the times.

The Seven Basic Food Groups have been simplified into four groups known as the Basic Four. The Basic Four is much easier to remember and thus it is easier to plan well balanced meals.

The Basic Four includes the milk group, meat group, vegetable and fruit group and the bread and cereal group.

In planning well balanced meals, we need to include foods containing the nutrients, protein, minerals, vitamins, carbohydrates and fats.

PROTEIN is needed for growth and repair for body tissues. Minerals and vitamins are needed for growth and to keep the body functioning properly. We need fats and carbohydrates for energy.

Most foods contain more than one nutrient. But no single food contains all the nutrients in the amounts we need. By selecting food from the Basic Four our bodies will be supplied with the nutrients we need.

Milk is our leading source of calcium which is needed for bones and teeth. It also provides high quality protein, riboflavin, vitamin A, and many other nutrients.

The milk group includes milk cheese, and ice cream. Children should have three to four glasses of milk or its equivalent a day. Teenagers need four or more glasses a day while adults need 2 or more glasses a day.

The meat group includes meat, poultry, eggs, fish, and dried legumes, such as dried beans or peas. These foods are valuable for their protein which is needed for growth and repair of body tissues — muscles, organs, blood, skin and hair. These foods also provide iron, thiamine, riboflavin, and niacin.

We should have two or more servings of meat a day.

Fruits and vegetables are valuable chiefly because of the vitamins and minerals they contain. By following the recommended servings from this group the body will be supplied with nearly all the vitamin C needed and over half of the vitamin A. Vitamin C is needed for healthy gums and body tissues, vitamin A is needed for growth, normal vision, and healthy condition of skin and other body surfaces.

The meat group includes meat, poultry, eggs, fish, and dried legumes, such as dried beans or peas. These foods are valuable for their protein which is needed for growth and repair of body tissues — muscles, organs, blood, skin and hair. These foods also provide iron, thiamine, riboflavin, and niacin.

We should have two or more servings of meat a day.

Fruits and vegetables are valuable chiefly because of the vitamins and minerals they contain. Taxes Not New; They Irked Payers Throughout History

As we take pen in hand to cope with that annual mid-April phenomenon called income tax payment our distress may be lessened somewhat if we divert our attention from the Internal Revenue form before us and consider briefly the conditions that prevailed in the Dark Ages of tax collecting.

Historians tell us that the first taxes were paid in produce, not money. Government kitties were enriched by tribute from conquered lands and long caravans sometimes traveled hundreds of miles to bring payments to ancient rulers. Frequently large duty payments mysteriously dwindled between the farm and the king's treasury, and tax agents amassed great wealth.

As early as Biblical days, tax payments were a matter of concern and no little discomfort. "Pharaoh's Fifth" — as cited in the Bible — was a tax of 20 per cent of an individual's land output that was paid by the Egyptians and collected by the Royal Treasury.

Punishment for evading payment of the Pharaoh's Fifth was a severe beating with a blunt instrument known as the "bastinado". The longer a subject endured the beating, the lower were his taxes — when he finally was convinced to pay them.

Since the time these first taxes were levied, few things have escaped taxation. While duties were Rees Jr., 32-year-old musician, is standing trial in Baltimore on charges of murdering two of them, Mrs. Carroll Jackson, 27, of Apple Grove, Va., and her daughter, Susan Ann, 5. The other victims were Jackson's 29-year-old son, Janet, 18 months, and Mrs. Margaret Harold, 36, a Maryland housewife.

New Tax on Motorists Urged by GOP Solon

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A gasoline tax on motorists, not deficit government spending, should provide the 13 billion dollars more for the interstate highway program, Associated General Contractors of Missouri were told Thursday.

Rep. Gordon H. Scherer, R-Ohio, told the contractors' convention: "Deficit government spending is the chief cause of inflation. If we start this inflationary spiral, we will further increase the cost of completing our highway program."

Ashville Council Accepts New Regulations on Refuse

The Council of the Village of Ashville met in special session Thursday to consider and study a new ordinance regulating the collection and hauling of garbage, trash and refuse within the Village.

Council requested Marvin Gamble of the Tri-County Refuse Service, Lawrence Metz of Larry's Refuse Service and Ed Bixler of Ashville, be present at this meeting. Each was given an opportunity to present his view and opinion on this matter.

The Council, after much discussion of the problem, passed an ordinance requiring all persons collecting and hauling garbage, trash, and refuse within the corporate limits for hire to obtain a permit to do so from the Mayor.

Those collecting and hauling garbage, trash and refuse for hire on an advanced collection period basis are further required by the new legislation to post a cash bond with the Village to guarantee and secure the performance of their obligations to the residents of the Village.

The ordinance authorizes the Mayor to issue two permits per year for the collection of trash and refuse, and two permits per year for the collection of garbage, trash and refuse.

State Liquor Sales Revenue Hits Peak

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sales of spirituous liquor in state stores and agencies in 1960 were the third highest in the 28-year history of the Ohio Department of Liquor Control, Director Richard C. Crouch reported today. Only 1957 and 1959 sales were higher.

Crouch said that while sales were not the highest, 1960 revenues will be greater than in any previous year. They will exceed 1959 by more than $4.5 million.

This larger revenue he attributed to the fact that the 10 per cent price increase put in effect on liquor on April 1, 1959, boosted returns through all of 1960. In addition, the retail sales tax in effect only six months of 1959, was in effect throughout 1960.

The year-end reports show sales amounted to $219,948,359 in 1960, dropping $870,865 under the 1959 total of $220,819,224.

U.S. 23-25 Hookup Gets State's Nod

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Highway Department has decided tentatively to use existing U. S. 23 in its efforts to speed the flow of traffic from the central part of the state to the Toledo area and Michigan.

Deputy Highway Director Guy E. Neerer, who is in charge of the department's planning and programming, said a tentative decision was reached at a meeting Thursday night to link U. S. 23 and U. S. 25 with a cross-route in Wyandot and Hancock counties.

Tentative plans call for making U. S. 23 four-lane all the way from Columbus to a point around Carey, Neerer said. Carey is about 11 miles northwest of Upper Sandusky in the corner of Wyandot County.

From there, Neerer said, the new hook-up route would cut west to link U. S. 23 with U. S. 25 (Interstate 75). U. S. 25 goes almost due north from Findlay into the Toledo area and on to Michigan.

After the course of the proposed hook-up route is decided upon, probably in March, Neerer said, public hearings will be arranged. These probably will come in June or July.

Attorney Bound To Grand Jury

CINCINNATI (AP) — Leslie D. Stickler, 37, Cincinnati attorney, has been bound over to the federal grand jury in an alleged $3.8 million fraudulent investment scheme. But he may agree to trial without grand jury action.

Stickler, charged with fraud by wire, waived a hearing Thursday before a U. S. commissioner and was allowed to remain at liberty under $25,000 bond.

Thomas Stueve, first assistant U. S. attorney, said, however, Stickler had agreed to be tried on a criminal information which would make grand jury action unnecessary.

Stickler is accused of having borrowed money from several hundred Cincinnatians by representing it would be loaned to builders at 20 to 25 per cent interest.

Castro Faces U.S. Alone

There are all sorts of appraisals of Castro's shifting impact on Latin America. There is still an impact, particularly on peoples where the communists have been most effective in doing their dirty work.

Half a dozen Latin nations have severed relations with Havana. Brazil is still a question mark. Outgoing Brazilian President Kubitschek has warned that unless the free world "cooperates" in improving Latin America's economic condition revolutions of unknown consequences will ensue.

He said millions of Latin Americans are unwilling to accept their limited conditions of life. What he intimates is that unless the United States, Brazil's biggest customer for coffee, sends scads of money quickly, the populace may decide to go hell bent for the "better life" currently being enjoyed by the Cubans. The Brazilian challenge is one Washington should meet dead on.

But the belief is spreading in Latin capitals that Castro's Cuban experiment is already beginning to fail and the best policy is to have nothing more to do with him.

Soviet observers are reported to have agreed privately that Castro overestimates what he thought would be overwhelming Latin reaction in his favor. In that belief he turned insufferably dictatorial and

Failures Bring Success

Research scientists are accustomed to throwing in the trash can a greater quantity of ideas than those which leave the laboratory with their best wishes. They do not become discouraged by repeated failures but count each as a step toward the eventual result.

An idea may be proved or disproved but either way some clutter of scientific uncertainty has been removed. Eventually, after enough debris has been discarded, the correct course can be found.

From the beginning, the United States space program has been the recipient of unrelenting scrutiny, complaint and discouragement given freely by a public which seems strangely convinced that the U.S. space program will be second to that of the Soviet Union, no matter how rapidly it advances.

Commie Dance Real Flop

Alas, the lissi has now lapsed into the class of the charleston on dance floors of East Germany. Never heard of the lissi? Well, comrade Grotewohl and associates probably wish they had not either, but it was invented by their "ministry of culture" and they are stuck with it.

Remember the protests about a year ago from various communist stooges about the decadence of Western culture and social pastimes penetrating the iron curtain? Elvis Presley seemed destined to become the greatest weapon of influence in free world arsenals. President Grotewohl of East Germany introduced a brainstorm which he probably thought would enhance his prestige greatly with his Moscow

Let Us Try Again

In his Inaugural Address, President Kennedy laid down his policy. Kennedy said:

"Let every nation know, whether it wish us well or ill, that we shall pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend, oppose any foe to assure the survival and success of liberty."

"This much we pledge — and more."

Then he restated the Monroe Doctrine in his own words:

"To our sister republics south of our border, we offer a special pledge — to convert our good words into good deeds — in a new alliance for progress — to assist free men and free governments in casting off the chains of poverty. But this peaceful revolution of hope cannot become the prey of hostile powers. Let all our neighbors know that we shall join with them to oppose aggression or subversion anywhere in the Americas. And let every other power know that this hemisphere intends to remain the master of its own house."

In many respects this statement is a strong, if not stronger than the original Monroe Doctrine. In fact, Kennedy issued a threat — clearly a threat — to those nations "who would make themselves our adversary."

"Finally, to those nations who would make themselves our adversary, we offer not a pledge but a request: that both sides begin anew the quest for peace, before the dark powers of destruction unleashed by science engulf all humanity in planned or accidental self-destruction."

"We dare not tempt them with weakness. For only when our arms are sufficient beyond doubt can we be certain beyond doubt that they will never be employed."

If these statements are put together, they become a guiding policy, namely, that the United States will prepare vigorously for war, if it should come; that the United States has no program of appeasement but does have a program of the defense of liberty and territorial independence, for all peoples, particularly for those of the Americas.

The United States seeks peace and is willing to negotiate for peace but it will not negotiate from fear. He said:

"So let us begin anew — remembering on both sides that civility is not a sign of weakness, and sincerity is always subject to proof. Let us never negotiate out of fear. But let us never fear to negotiate."

Khrushchev understands precisely what all this means. He will excerpt these paragraphs as they are excerpted here; he will tear the thought out of the verbiage and recognize that he is dealing with a tough hombre, who does not speak soft or act soft. All this will be clear to the Russian. He is warned that good manners are "not a sign of weakness," but their lack can engender disgust. If Khrushchev believes that Kennedy is a sissy and that he can hurl a shoe at him, he is mistaken.

On the other hand, President Kennedy must recognize that Soviet Russia cannot relinquish its main objective which is to reduce the entire world to an acceptance of Marxist sociology and economics. Whereas Khrushchev masks his intentions behind such general phrases as competitive co-existence, Mao Tse-tung is more honest.

By George Sokolsky

est and frank. Mao, as an orthodox Communist, desires a war upon the United States immediately. In the recent great conference in Moscow, Mao's insistence upon war was voted down, but every statement out of Peking establishes his moral rejection of the Kremlin decision. Mao has a famine to look after; otherwise he would not have retreated.

President Kennedy in his Inaugural Address says he will not make Harry Truman's mistake about "good, old Joe." He said: "Sincerity is always subject to proof." Also, Kennedy is in no hurry:

"All this will not be finished in the first 100 days. Nor will it be finished in the first 1,000 days, nor in the life of this Administration, nor even perhaps in our lifetime on the planet."

Surely, the course toward understanding did not begin with this Inaugural Address. It began when Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill rescued Stalin from defeat and were rewarded by treachery. It began when the United States gave Soviet Russia $1,000,000,000 to found the industry which is now being used against us. It began at Teheran and Yalta. It was continued at Camp David and before that at the First Summit Conference. "Let us begin" — is not historically correct. "Let us try again after many failures and disappointments," would have been more accurate.

They wanted to hear the song, but few spoke English. All spoke French, so each was given a copy of the song in that language.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A VERY SMART young man in Houston, Texas, has compiled a list of rules for "How to raise a juvenile delinquent in your own family" that the Police Department there is distributing in pamphlet form. Some of its highlights:

1. Begin with infancy to give the child everything he wants. This will insure his growing up to believe that the world owes him a living.
2. When he picks up bad words, laugh heartily at him. This will make him think he's cute. Soon he'll acquire a vocabulary that will blow off the top of your head.
3. Give him all the spending money he wants. Never let him earn a penny of his own.
4. Take his part against neighbors, teachers, policemen. They all are prejudiced against your child. He never is wrong.
5. Finally, prepare yourself for a life of grief. Brother, you're going to have it.

State Senator Appointment Plan May Get to Voters

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio voters probably will be asked to change their Constitution next November to provide for appointments to Senate vacancies.

Leaders of both parties in the present Legislature expect approval of a resolution to place the question on election ballots. A similar proposal cleared the Senate but died in the House two years ago when Democrats expected to remain in control.

Sen. C. Stanley Mecham, R-Athens, Senate majority leader, said a new resolution is being drafted for early action. He asserted the matter should not be put off because most senators have four-year terms. They formerly served two years, the same as House members.

The contemplated resolution would contain a requirement for the appointing authority to name a senator from the same district and of the same political faith as his predecessor.

Ohio cigarette smokers will be able to deduct the five cents-a-pack state levy in filing their federal income tax returns, if the Legislature enacts a pending bill.

The Ohio State Bar Association, which drafted the measure, estimates the average smoker could take a $25 annual deduction — $50 if both a husband and wife are smokers and file a joint return.

The potential saving to Ohioans approximates $5 million annually, the association figures.

A legal technicality now prevents Ohioans from taking a cigarette tax deduction on itemized returns as do residents of other states. The proposed law would declare Ohio's cigarette tax a levy upon consumer transactions, otherwise called a use tax.

Once a state legislature declares the cigarette levy a use tax, the Internal Revenue Service has allowed its deduction, the association explained. Such action would not change collection of the tax, however.

The state collected more than $60 million in cigarette taxes last year. Estimates indicate that the average smoker puffs between a pack and a pack and a half a day.

School Before Marriage?

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Going away to school is a challenge. You're leaving familiar surroundings for new places, people, pursuits.

Some students take it in their stride; others become lonely.

Here is a typical letter from a young reader who is faced with the problem of school vs. marriage:

Q. "I am 18, and have been going steady two years. My friend's parents always liked me until they found out my mother was divorced, now they will not invite me to the house. Their son is an only child. He is an electronics student, aged 22. I am at college some distance away. He wanted to get married. My parents think that I should finish college before I am married. What do you think?"

A. If you can persuade your parents that your friend is mature enough to face marriage, and his parents will accept you, that could be one answer. If you are determined to get your degree and would regret it if you didn't, you should continue with your education.

Here's a letter from a 16-year-old who sings herself "Puzzled By The Crowd."

Q. "I have been going around with a number of girls, but recently they have changed. They go out with boys who are very tough. Now they want to plan a weekend of skating with the boys and plan to tell their parents that it is an all-girl weekend. I don't want to go without telling my parents, but the girls have made a pact that no one tells parents. Should I risk losing their friendships?"

A. I think you could well risk losing their friendships, as they apparently don't have much to offer you in that respect. Girls of 16 have no business spending a weekend away from home with boys. It would be so much easier to have a set of parents chaperone the party, and then no one would have any regrets.

New 'Slim Look' Draws Ohs At Paris Fashion Showing

PARIS (AP) — Designer Marc Bohan stripped the spinach from fashion today in a lady-like collection for Dior that may well prove the biggest style hit since the "new look."

What Bohan names the "slim look" is a silhouette with a long waistless bodice to the top of the hip, with lightly flared skirts often showing a bit of the kneecap.

Enthusiastic applause throughout the show made it clear that Bohan has a smash hit for his debut as a replacement for Yves Mathieu Saint-Laurent.

Women should love his unfussy, easy to wear, easy to walk-in clothes, which for once are as pretty as they are elegant. A fairly slim pair of hips is the only thing they require.

When the 34-year-old designer forgot his ladylike look to cut just three necklines that plunged right to the waist and laughed.

Bohan's typical suit has a trim but unfitted midhip jacket with a loose belt at the top of the hip-line, sometimes on the jacket and sometimes on the lightly flared skirt with sleeveless, bloused-over top.

Slightly longer jackets loosely cuffed in behind are cut away to the waistline in front in a gentle curve. Some skirts break away in fluted pleats from midhip.

There is not a nipped waist nor a hobble hem in the show. Bell skirts show up only for cocktail and short formal wear, tacked onto stem-straight bodices that come o the top of the hip.

Colors are the palest pastels — pink, apricot, pistachio and Nile green, yellow, lilac, and dusty Wedgewood blue — as well as lots of gray, beige, navy, white and black.

The only trimmings on many of his creations are welted or saddle-stitched seams, often quartering loose coats in a big X. The same idea is used for tier effects on dresses and suits, and there are some tiered hemlines.

Smallish round-head hats give the head a trim line. They are roll-brimmed, round-crowned sailor caps, flower pots or pudding basins, draped raffia or tulle turbans and mob caps.

None are the high chignons Dior mannequins used to wear. The new hair style is smoothly brushed and medium short. One side is brushed forward a little on the cheek, the other is worn behind the ear.

Women Have Last Word in Ocseny, Hungary

OCSENY, Hungary (AP) — Hungary's Communists who later this year will reopen their drive to collectivize agriculture, have one particularly tough nut to crack — a handful of women landowners.

For hundreds of years, the women of this village have been its masters. The female heads of families own the surrounding 17,000 acres of land, they hand out the orders to the men, they're given almost royal status — and they're unlikely to abandon a setup like that without a fight.

How the men ever let a matriarchal form of society spring up here has been misted over by time.

But it's proved durable enough. Not even the Turks, who conquered Hungary in 1526 and stayed for 250 years, ever really got far in this part of the country.

The Communists expect to have better luck.

"In the autumn Communists propagandists and organizers will come here in strength to convert the population to cooperative farming," says Mrs. Jozsef Horvath, secretary of the village council.

Seventy per cent of arable land in Hungary is now either in cooperative or state farms.

"Communist 'persuaders' — sometimes running into hundreds — descend on a village, engage the peasants in marathon discussion sessions and usually go away with most of them signed up.

They may find it difficult to have the last word here.

One old matriarch has moved into one room in her house, has had the door walled up and takes her food through the only window.

Family law here decrees that the oldest woman owns everything which she wills to the eldest daughter.

In some families, girls of marriage age are not expected to work. They spend their time around the house learning how to be good wives — and how to run affairs when their turn comes to rule the roost.

For generations, men who married into a family were not permitted to live with their wives in the main house in the village where the matriarch ruled supreme.

The newlyweds were sent out to live in cottages built around the family land.

In some families this practice is still common.

Pour cooked cornmeal into a small loaf pan and chill. Unmold, slice and fry in butter or other fat. If you like a crisp crust, dip the slices in flour or cornmeal before they go into the skillet.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

A Mother's Dilemma

DEAR ABBY: Help me make a decision that involves a child's future. Sixteen years ago I had an illegitimate son. My whole family knew about it. I refused to give him up for adoption (I was 17) so my parents, God bless them, legally adopted him. When he was 14 months old I married a good man who knew my past but didn't hold it against me.

My son grew up believing me to be his sister. I now have four children of my own. They call him "Uncle." I live in fear that one day somebody is going to tell him that I am his mother—not his sister. My husband says the boy has a right to know the truth. I'm afraid he will despise me. What is the right thing to do?

HAUNTED

DEAR HAUNTED: Tell him before somebody else does. He has reason to love you very much because you chose to keep him close to you.

DEAR ABBY:

I am 12 years old and my mother is 32. My question is: Should my mother wear blue jeans in town when my father won't let me wear Slim Jims to school? Thank you.

A GIRL

DEAR GIRL: That depends on how your mother looks in blue jeans and how you look in Slim Jims.

DEAR ABBY:

Jim and I have been married 35 years. Our children are grown and we could have life so good, but here is my problem. When we have words, Jim goes to a hotel overnight. He says he goes for a "rest" — but I think it is more than a rest he is

Strong Hurricane Hands Tigers 70-51 Cage Defeat

The Wilmington Hurricane, utilizing a fastbreak and a tight defense, showed plenty of power in downing visiting Circleville last night, 70-51.

Ability to move the ball and find men open in the process paid handsome dividends for the veteran Hurricane cagers. Circleville suffered seriously with its old problems of turnovers and too many fouls.

Wilmington, leading the SCO League, concentrated on stopping the scoring of Bruce Barnes and Sam Weller and attained this goal in the early stages, long enough to give the hosts a lead. However, Barnes and Weller upped their game to finish with 16 points each.

Chubby Jim Kidd was a sore point for the Tigers. He racked 24 points, with many of them coming on the scoring end of neat fast-breaks. The able cager also hit eight of nine at the foul line.

MARV GREGORY, an expert driver, was a source of trouble as he finished with 18 points. The swift redhead dropped in nine of 10 charities.

The Hurricane, turning many Tiger miscues into baskets, hit 44.4 per cent from the field and had a field day at the foul line with 22 of 35 shots.

Circleville had much trouble finding the range in the early minutes, but ended the game with 32.2 per cent on 18 of 58 attempts.

Circleville led at the outset, 2-0, as Barnes hit the first two points of the game with a brace of foul shots. The Hurricane then shot out front, 18-11, at the end of the first period and opened the gap to 36-20 at halftime.

The hosts increased their advantage to 57-36 at the three-quarter mark. The winners, enjoying their safe lead, fell behind in scoring in the final chapter, 15-13.

Weller and Barnes led Circleville's scoring with an assortment of shots. Sophomore Clesson Thomas came through with nine markers.

2 Nomads in Line For Regular Positions

NEW YORK (AP)—A pair of minor league nomads, who have been wandering from club to club for years, may finally settle down, thanks to the American League expansion program.

The nomads are second baseman Johnny Schaive and third baseman Harry Bright. Both are expected to win regular jobs with the new Washington Senators.

Schaive—pronounced shy-vee—27, of Springfield, Ill., had eight seasons of minor league experience. Last year he was the slickest fielding second baseman in the American Association and batted .314 at Charleston.

Schaive has had two tastes of big league ball. He was in seven games for Washington in 1958, going to bat 24 times for six hits. Last year, after batting .313 at Denver and .278 at Chattanooga, Johnny got another chance with Washington. This time he collected nine hits in 59 times at bat.

Bright, 31, from Sacramento, has had several trials with Pittsburgh and the Chicago Cubs. Last year, at Salt Lake City, he batted .313 and led the Pacific Coast regular shortstop berth with Bob He walloped 27 home runs and was second in total bases with 322.

Jimmy Mahoney, former Boston Red Sox chattel, will vie for the regular shortstop berth with Bob Johnson, formerly with Kansas City. Mahoney played at Minneapolis last year, hitting .236 in 154 games.

Marien Zipfel, a first baseman-outfielder, may prove to be the biggest surprise. Only 22, he was drafted from the New York Yankees. At Binghamton last year, the Belleville, Ill., native batted only .271 but he hammered 28 home runs and drove across 108 runs.

Bayer Holds 4-Stroke Edge In Frisco Test

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Long-hitting George Bayer went into the third round of the $50,000 San Francisco International Golf Tournament today with an imposing four-stroke lead.

Booming his drives 300 yards down the fairways of the 6,672-yard Harding Park Course, the former University of Washington football player convinced fans that his first round six-under-par 66 was no fluke.

Seven birdies highlighted his card as he blazed through his second round Friday in five-under-par 66 for a total of 131.

Bayer has earned only $114.29 on the pro tour this year. He was a hefty money winner in 1960, however, at $24,955.

Clustered at 135 were seven subpar shooters, including Charlie Sifford, only Negro player in the tournament, whose first-round 65 had put him even with Bayer at that point.

But Sifford said he "couldn't sink a putt" Friday and his two-under-par 69 enabled a half dozen veterans to overtake him.

Ted Kroll, who led the recent Crosby tournament by four strokes after three rounds and then blew himself out of contention at the finish; U.S. Open champion Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper Jr., Don January, Stan Leonard and Mike Souchak were bunched with Sifford.

Casualty

TUSCUMBIA, Ala. (AP)—Marshall James Grigsby of Killen, whose car was involved in a traffic accident, was terrified when he saw the other driver's head smeared with crimson.

Grigsby quickly called an ambulance, which rushed M. A. Chandler, 81, of Corinth, Miss., to a hospital. He was treated for bruises and wiped clean of the watermelon which splattered him in the collision.

dom of association.

The legislature acted shortly after two Negroes were admitted for the first time to the University of Georgia on federal court order. A federal court also has directed the Atlanta public schools start desegregation by September.

At Memphis, Tenn., John McFerren, 36, unofficial "mayor of tent city" was asked to resign as chairman of the Fayette County Civic and Welfare League but he said the action was illegal.

McFerren played an active part in the Negro voter registration drive that resulted in a Justice Department suit charging white leaders in nearby Fayette County with economic conspiracy against Negro voters.

The request that McFerren resign was made by Scott Franklin, president of the league. But McFerren said only the board of directors can name a new chairman.

In Brownsville, Tenn., Phillip H. Savage of Baltimore, a field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, was convicted of threatening a breach of the peace and fined $50. He was arrested while interviewing Negroes lined up to register as voters. An appeal was planned.
